

Kabindra Sharma, in his role as Senior Project Fellow with the National Mission on Himalayan Studies, has been actively involved in spearheading the rejuvenation efforts of springs in the Eastern Himalayas for the past three years. Concurrently, he is pursuing a Ph.D. at Sikkim University. Additionally, Kabindra holds an MPhil from the same department and has successfully completed his postgraduate studies in International Relations at Pondicherry University. His research is chiefly dedicated to exploring water resource issues, with a distinct focus on Indigenous communities throughout South Asia