

ENOQUE MARUBO

I am Enoque Marubo and I am an indigenous leader representing the Marubo people, who inhabit the Javari Valley region in the Amazonas state of Brazil.

My life's purpose revolves around safeguarding indigenous rights, preserving the environment, and upholding the rich culture of my community. In addition to advocating for our rights within the second-largest indigenous territory in the Amazon, I am deeply committed to the preservation of our cultural heritage and traditional knowledge.

I actively engage in educational initiatives that promote the Marubo language and traditions to bolster our cultural identity.

As a dedicated warrior, I staunchly confront the threats faced by Amazonian indigenous peoples. Tirelessly defending our tribe remains paramount in safeguarding our land, rights, and the future of generations to come.

Beyond my advocacy work, I earned a degree in Business Administration and manage multiple responsibilities, including a profession in Graphic Design, where I specialize in creating a wide array of materials. My expertise extends to 3D work, virtual environment projections, renderings, innovation, POS, and more.
